

Statement on Equitable and Inclusive Classrooms

This statement is intended as a guideline in the absence of College-approved language on this subject.

Equitable and Inclusive Classrooms

Our college and our world at large include people of different ethnicities, gender identities, religions, ages, sexual orientations, abilities, socioeconomic backgrounds, regions, and nationalities. Each person in this class brings unique experiences and valued perspectives. Please respect our classroom community, and appreciate the opportunity we have to learn from each other. Our cohort is both diverse and inclusive, and displays of intolerance against individuals or groups will not be part of our culture because they do not promote a positive academic or personal environment. If at any time you feel excluded or you witness harassment, please speak with me so we can work together to create a setting that is more conducive to every student's wellbeing.
